A/N: OCs

Hey pplz! I'm finally writing a Warriors fanfic! I thought it would be good to take a little break from my old books and try to get some new inspiration. But don't worry, I'll update them when the time comes. Okay, now what I really wanted to talk about. Do you want an OC featured in "Fox"?

Well, I'm starting a little contest for OCs to be added into this book. You can add 1-2 OCs, and they MUST be cats. I'll only be picking 2 or 3 depending on how many people cast a vote. You have to write your OCs COMPLETE and DETAILED description, along with which original Clan from the books is your favorite, ThunderClan, RiverClan, ShadowClan, or WindClan. No, you can't choose BloodClan. Also, list what status you want to be, warrior, apprentice, or kit. You cannot choose leader or deputy. You can choose to be a loner or rogue if you'd like.

Just before you head to the comments and cast your vote, be warned. This book will contain blood, death and feelz, much like the original series. Don't say I didn't warn you.

Now that all that's out of the way, here is an example of what your vote SHOULD look something like:

Name:

Gender:

Age: (in moons)

Status: (if your OC is an apprentice, also put what you want their warrior name to be)

Personality:

Eye Color:

Pelt Color:

Markings:

Body Type:

Clan Preference: (if rogue or loner, just put N/A or none)

Prey of Choice:

Best Skill:

Likes:

Dislikes:

Leadership: (out of 10) [DO NOT PUT 10 FOR ALL THE THINGS THAT SAY OUT OF 10.]

Agility: (out of 10)

Stamina: (out of 10)

Speed: (out of 10)

Strength: (out of 10)

Defense: (out of 10)

Best Skill:

Powers?: (nothing OP please)

Weaknesses:

Loyal?: Yes

Backstory:

Other Important Character Traits (blind, deaf, injured, etc.):

Sorry if this is a lot to type, I just need a lot of facts to truly understand a certain character. See ya in the next chapter!

Allegiances

[image]

Prologue

A soft breeze rustled the leaves of trees, the forest trembling at the silent gust. Moonlight rippled along the forest floor, the milky light flooding over the long stalks of grass. Crickets chirped in the night's eerie silence, their songs echoing through the cool air. The lithe body of a cat padded through the thick foliage, casting a shadow over the trunk of a fallen tree. The she-cat lowered to a hunting crouch, her light ginger pelt glimmering in the moonlight, and crept forward, her ears pricked for the sounds of prey.

Finally, the scuffling of a mouse reached her keen ears and its scent wafted into her nostrils. She crept towards the sound, her pads silent against the ground. The tiny creature was sitting behind the fallen tree eating a seed, unaware of the she-cat's presence. The cat tensed, preparing to spring at the newfound prey, when a loud noise, as loud as thunder, erupted from nowhere. The she-cat jumped at the sound, seeing the ferns part as the mouse darted away.

She looked around, startled by the booming crack. Her blue eyes widened as a new sound rang out in the trees, the cry of a wounded cat. The she-cat retreated backwards, backpedaling until she ran into the surface of a tree. New and horrifying sounds emitted from the darkening forests, angry yowls, mournful wails, and the sickening noise of tearing flesh.

Several glowing eyes appeared from the underbrush, the shadowy bodies of cats surrounding the terrified she-cat. The reek of blood hit her as they crept closer.

"How could you?! " one voice cried, echoing through the she-cat's ears.

"Don't just stand there! She's dying! " said another.

"Kittypet! "

"Disgrace! "

"Traitor! "

"Fish-lover! "

"Treason! "

The cats inched closer, only their glowing amber eyes and glinting fangs visible in the darkness. Trembling, the ginger she-cat turned tail and sped away, her paws pounding against the forest floor. The shadowy cats chased after her, meowing insults and yowling things she could no longer understand. Finally, she no longer felt the ground beneath her feet. She was falling, the hazy cat's eyes far above her.

The she-cat yowled and flailed her paws in the air, the sound of water roaring in her ears as she plummeted into an icy body of water, sending a plume of droplets into the air. She struggled against the water, creating flurries of bubbles all around her, trying to reach the surface for air, but her heavy, soaked fur pulled her downward. The roar of falling water filled the eerie dark blue depths, the water prickling her skin like ice. A light blue clouded her vision until all she could see was black, the darkness engulfing her as the world faded from view.

"Fox! Fox, wake up!"

Fox awoke with a start, nearly blinded by the bright light of the sun. She shakily stretched her legs and stood up, feeling the rocky concrete against her paws and blinking the sleep from her eyes. A light brown tom was crouched in front of her, concern flickering in his amber eyes. "A-Acorn?" Fox asked, cocking her head to one side.

"Sorry... I came to see you and.. you were thrashing and..." Acorn's meow trailed off, his paws shifting awkwardly.

"It-it's okay, Acorn," she reassured him, though her tail remained low to the ground. "J-just a nightmare."
